

Current Ratio

ratio helps measure the health of the company in the short term. As a rule of thumb, the current ratio should be above 1.0. A safe current ratio is typically above 1.5. Look for stability trends within the current ratio to see how the company manages their short term risk.

