

Debt to Equity Ratio

Debt to equity ratio helps measure the health of the company in the long term. As a rule of thumb, the ratio should be lower than 0.5. Look for stability trends within the debt/equity ratio to see how the company manages their long term risk.

Ticker

